QUESTION 1
Which factor allows the printer to maintain print speed throughout the duration of a print job?

A. printing from Tray 1
B. printing a complex job
C. printing on transparencies
D. printing through a network connection

Answer: D
Explanation:
The only possible answer is D. When you print complex job, the speed cannot be maintained because a complex job takes time to print. Printing on transparencies mean that printer has to disperse ink carefully and it always takes time to print on a transparent paper. Printing from tray is not an applicable option for the question. Printing through a network connection means that the printer is getting sizable print jobs, which translate, into keeping the printer busy. Since a stale or rarely used printer can accumulate dirt and the print heads can get blocked, regular printing keeps these problems at bay.
